

Poultry Vet

Ireland and Northern Ireland

VETERINARY SURGEONS

I R E L A N D

St David's Poultry Team is the leading independently owned poultry practice with bases throughout Ireland and the UK. Within Ireland, we have bases in Limerick, Monaghan, Dungannon and Ballymena.

We pride ourselves on over 150 years of combined poultry expertise and exceptional customer support and service.

We are currently seeking candidates interested in a career as a poultry veterinarian in Ireland. The suitable candidate should be a team player, with good communication skills and problem solving abilities. Candidates should have an interest in personal development through continued learning due to the progressive nature of this industry. An interest in the poultry industry is essential, previous poultry knowledge would also be desirable but not essential.

This post may be of interest to new graduates, or veterinarians looking to diversify from their current role, or those already in the poultry field. Full and part time roles are available.

This unique opportunity has a generous remuneration package dependent on experience, with excellent support and development potential.

If you would like further information, please contact Aonghus Lane on +44(0)7845014745, or to apply, please send a covering letter and CV to hr@stdavids-vets.co.uk
